Thanks... where you at city hall today... I waited at someone in the underground parking and I thought it was you. I was in a black truck.

Understood Kim. I just need my colleagues to receive an account from the front lines.
I do certainly encourage everyone to report all incidents.
Best
Catherine

Thank you for this additional information Councillor McKenney. This type of information is not provided in our updates because the EOC is not made aware of these incidents. They are often going unreported or are being reported to the Police through their incident hotline. Police don't share this kind of information with the EOC.

And if I may add: the illegal occupiers attempted to lock residents into a building on McLeod with handcuffs on the doors (this after an attempted arson in a nearby building where they tried to tape the doors shut to trap people inside during a fire), thousands of car & truck horns directly outside of people's homes on Kent, Metcalfe, Bay, Bronson and surrounding streets are having the intended effect of terrorizing residents, both Centretown grocers had to close this afternoon because of unmasked & harassing mobs overwhelming their stores and intimidating their mostly young and low-wage staff (who will again forgo wages), seniors and women and other more vulnerable people continue to be afraid to leave their homes, a mom broke down sobbing today because she couldn't get a birthday gift for her 5 year old because she is traumatized and can't leave her apartment and hundreds of other similar heartbreaking accounts are occurring also in our city. La version française suit

Mayor and Members of Council,

This is the third weekend of anti-mandate protests in Ottawa. The Emergency Operations Centre continues to support the Ottawa Police Service and the National Capital Region Command Centre to prioritize the safety of residents and communities.

There were several thousand protesters in the downtown core today. Throughout the day, in an effort to control incoming vehicles, the MacDonald-Cartier Bridge experienced some lane restrictions. Protesters were primarily congregating at Rideau/Sussex, at Coventry, at Metcalfe/Wellington and at Metcalfe/Slater (note: a small amount were also on Parliament Hill).

Since January 28, By-law and Regulatory Services has issued 2,174 parking tickets in the red zone, including 442 yesterday. Due to the crowd size today, as well as reports from partners of more aggressive behaviour on the part of protesters (such as attempts to swarm vehicles), By-Law paused some of its enforcement work in the perimeter. The fencing that had been installed around the National War Memorial was removed by protesters this afternoon. Ottawa Police, the NCRCC and other partners are determining whether new fencing should be installed. Ottawa Public Health has issued a Frostbite Warning. The Warning is issued when a wind chill of -35 or colder is forecast by Environment and Climate Change Canada. The Salvation Army outreach van will be operational to provide support on a 24-hour basis, to vulnerable populations.

OPS released an update today. They reported that:

- There have been 26 arrests in relation to criminal charges.
- Along with the Ontario Ministry of Transportation, they have launched a joint truck violation initiative. Three vehicles have been placed out of service and ten charges have been issued including moving violations, document offenses, lapsed inspection, and daily log infractions.
- Enforcement of new emergency measures will begin following their formal implementation by the Province.
- Officers were deployed to downtown school neighbourhoods on Friday in response to reports of demonstrators harassing children.

The full update is available on the Ottawa Police Service web page.

There are protests occurring this weekend in Winnipeg, Toronto and Windsor (Ambassador Bridge), among other locations. Protests against COVID restrictions were also held today in France and the Netherlands.

Monsieur le maire et membres du Conseil,

C'est la troisième fin de semaine de manifestations anti-mandat à Ottawa. Le Centre des opérations d'urgence continue d'appuyer le Service de police d'Ottawa (SPO) et le Centre de commandement de la région de la capitale nationale (CCRCN) afin de donner la priorité à la sécurité des résidents et des collectivités.

Il y avait plusieurs milliers de manifestants dans le centre-ville aujourd'hui. Au cours de la journée, afin de contrôler les véhicules entrants, le pont MacDonald-Cartier a connu certaines restrictions de voies. Les manifestants se rassemblaient principalement à Rideau/Sussex, à Coventry, à Metcalfe/Wellington et à Metcalfe/Slater (note : un petit nombre se trouvait également sur la Colline du Parlement).

Depuis le 28 janvier, les Services des règlements municipaux ont émis 2 174 contraventions de stationnement dans la zone rouge, dont 442 hier. En raison de la taille de la foule aujourd'hui, ainsi que des rapports de partenaires de comportement plus agressif de la part des manifestants (comme des tentatives d'essaim de véhicules), le Service des règlements a suspendu une partie de son travail d'application de la loi dans le périmètre.

La clôture qui avait été installée autour du Monument commémoratif de guerre du Canada par le gouvernement fédéral a été enlevée par les manifestants cet après-midi. La Police d'Ottawa, le CCRCN et d'autres partenaires déterminent si de nouvelles clôtures devraient être installées.

Santé publique Ottawa a émis une mise en garde contre les engelures. L'avertissement est émis lorsqu'un refroidissement éolien de -35 ou moins est prévu par Environnement et Changement climatique Canada. La fourgonnette d'intervention de l'Armée du Salut sera opérationnelle pour fournir un soutien 24 heures sur 24, aux populations vulnérables.

Le SPO a publié une mise à jour aujourd'hui. Il signale ce qui suit :

- 26 arrestations ont été faites relativement à des infractions criminelles.
- Le SPO et le ministère des Transports de l'Ontario ont entamé une initiative concertée portant sur les infractions relatives aux camions. Trois véhicules ont été mis hors service et dix accusations ont été portées, dont des infractions relatives à la conduite, des infractions de documentation, délais d'inspection expirés et des infractions relatives à la fiche journalière.
- L'application de nouvelles mesures d'urgence débutera dès leur mise en œuvre officielle par la province.
- Des agents furent déployés vendredi dans des zones écolières du centre-ville, donnant suite à plusieurs signalements de manifestants harcelant des enfants.

La mise à jour complète est disponible sur la page Web du Service de police d'Ottawa.

Des manifestations similaires ont lieu cette fin de semaine à Winnipeg, Toronto et Windsor (au pont Ambassador), entre autres. Des manifestations contre les restrictions de la COVID ont aussi eu lieu aujourd'hui en France et aux Pays-Bas
